

febi Oil Sumps

product news

Sitting below the sub-frame the sump is essential for the operation of the engine, providing vital lubrication. However, its low position exposes the unit to damage from uneven road surfaces and is particularly vulnerable to pot holes, speed bumps and rocks, which can crack the unit when impact occurs. Debris thrown up from the road can contribute to cracks and corrosion.

febi has a range of oil sumps ranging from individual sump units to sets that include a combination of oil sump gasket, drain plug, O-ring, OPC, and with or without level sensor hole. These parts are not usually provided with the OE Part, making febi's offering an excellent opportunity for you to go the extra mile for your customer and supply all the parts they need under one part number.
